R.—Trains pass Bolivar as follows: Passenger train, south, 1:30 p. m.; freight train, north, 5:30 p. m.; Freight train, north, Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, at 5:05 p. m.; Freight train, south, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at 8:25 a. m. By this arrangement persons visiting Memphis will no longer be compelled to lay over all night at the Junction, but go through to their destination without any stoppage, save the few moments required to change cars. Connections will be equally perfect from Memphis to this point.

"With all my soul," said Andrew said, "I will be a good man, live or die."

THE MONUMENT.—There is no longer any room for doubt; a monument to the memory of our lamented dead will be erected in a few months, and those who have not contributed to the sacred fund should lose no time in doing so, as the estimable ladies who have so faithfully endeavored to discharge their self-imposed task are anxious to complete their labors and have erected in our midst a lasting tribute to the valor and manhood of those who have passed through the dark valley and the shadow of death. Considerable money has been collected, yet the fund is incomplete, and certainly our citizens will aid the society now that victory is so near at hand. All contributions should be handed over to the Secretary, Mr. A. T. McNeal, who will receipt for the same and pass the amount to the Treasurer, R. S. Hardy, Esq. Hand in your note before it is too late, and thus win yourself a clear conscience to the last. Open your purse with willing hand and vote remembrance to the dead.

MEMPHIS BULLETIN.—Since the retiring of Col. J. B. Bingham from the editorial chair of the Memphis Bulletin, we are asked as to who are conducting that able journal, and take this method of replying. Mr. Bingham transferred his interest in the paper to P. B. Wills, Col. L. J. Duggee, R. A. Thompson, D. M. Philp and J. W. Youngblood, by whom the Bulletin is now owned and conducted. All of the gentlemen named were in some way or another associated with Mr. Bingham previous to his withdrawal, and are able and competent journalists. The Bulletin is a wide-awake visitor to "these dignities," and is read by many admirers here.

E. H. O.—We are assured that Rev. E. H. Osborne will hereafter be a regular contributor to our paper. This is indeed a help to us, and one that our readers will appreciate. His first letter appears in another column, and is full of the beautiful and true.

This is truly an age of wonders, and the most wonderful of all is the fact that a fellow townsman a few days since, while Circuit Court was in session, wishing to keep out of the way of the Sheriff who was picking up everybody and placing them on the list of jurors for the trial of felon, picked up his gun and made a tour through the bottom. While perambulating through the dense forest that overhung his pathway, his visual organs, although long since dimmed by age, suddenly became rejuvenated, and to the old man's astonishment he seemed to be living over his boyish days, so bright were the objects around him, and so clear could he discern even the smallest atom floating around, that he was enchanted spell-bound to the spot, and lost in wonder and admiration, until by chance, he remembered that on starting out he had supplied himself with a pair of Blynn's new "Periscope Glasses," manufactured expressly for the aged, and kept constantly on hand by John R. Blynn, south side public square. But it is not wonderful that this is spun out to such length, for he has pens that not only write by themselves, but will almost make a man write whether he wants to or not.

HARRY.—Memphians all know Harry Weatherbee, and visitors to the bluff city should not fail to make his acquaintance, as he is one of those genial souls but too seldom met with. His place of business is in the Senate Building, Jefferson street, between Main and Second. His saloon, in the resort of those who are partial to the "purest and the best."

CLOTHING.—J. H. Waggoner & Co., Clark's Marble Block, Main street, Memphis, have for sale the largest stock of clothing ever brought to that city. Their stock embraces every variety and style of ready-made goods, undergarments, notions, etc. They also make to order, from goods of their own importation, suits that cannot be surpassed by any house in the country. Their stock of clothing for youths is complete in every particular. Wholesale and Retail. Low Prices!

W. H. SEAY.—While in Memphis a few days since it was our good fortune to meet this "true son of the soil." He is associated with Mr. J. K. Hutchinson, of Brownsville, Tenn., in the cotton and commission business, at No. 220 Main street, opposite the Worsham House, and should be patronized by those who "stood the test that tried men's souls."

W. S. EASTMAN.—The many friends and acquaintances of this estimable gentleman will find him at the elegant store of B. Lowenstein & Bros., corner of Main and Jefferson streets, Memphis.

DIXIE.—Under the New Memphis Theatre, Jefferson street, you will find him surrounded by "good things for the inner man." Be sure to call and see him when you are in the city.

Memphis, Nov. 8.—The cotton market, says the Appeal has been very quiet during the day with only limited sales. Many planters in their anxiety to liquidate their debts urge their merchants to sell, and the consequence is that the staple is forced upon the market at fully one cent below its proper figures shown by our New York dispatches. Holders are shy and are not anxious to purchase at 34c. COLMAN'S RURAL WORLD.—This Western Agricultural Journal for the 1st of November is received, and is filled with matters of great interest to our farming community. The cold stormy days and long evenings of winter are at hand, and farmers should supply themselves with interesting and profitable reading. Farmers who do not take one or more agricultural papers are certainly behind the times. Colman's Rural World would be in every family. It is neatly printed, ably conducted, and deserves an extensive patronage. It is published on the 1st and 15th of each month, in excellent form for binding, at $2 per annum, by Norman J. Colman, 97 Chestnut St., Saint Louis, Mo.

Toy Fortune.—The inventor of the "walking doll" so numerous in the toyshops a few Christmas days ago, made seventy-five thousand dollars by his patent. The dancing "Jim Crow" toy of two years ago, was invented by an invalid boy, and won a fortune. The inventor of the common street toy known as the "return ball" is said to have realized a hundred thousand. "Despite not the day of small things."

Warts.—To cure warts, take a little Corrosive sublimate and put it in whiskey, and with the mixture wash the wart a few times and it is gone. Then dress it with some mild ointment, and in a short time one would not know that a wart had ever been there.

Gen. Forrest was tried before the Circuit Court of Coahoma county, for the killing of a negro on his plantation last summer, and was acquitted.

A SUPERIOR NUMBER.—The Phenological Journal for November contains sketches of the King and Queen of the Belgians, with likenesses; Chief Men among the Mormons, with many excellent portraits and other illustrations; besides Lyceum Lectures; Dr. J. P. Possati, the celebrated French phenologist; Public Opinion; Woman who Talk; Family Dog; and a host of other reading, suggestive and profitable too. Price 20 cents or $2 a year. GROCERIES.—Fleming & Usery, at Pitzer Miller's old stand, have on hand and for sale low a large stock of plantation supplies.

The Last Hours of John Van Buren.—Our readers are already informed of the death of this distinguished American, which occurred on board the steamer Scotland, Oct. 13th, upon his return passage from an extended European tour. The New York World gives a minute and interesting account of his illness, and of the last manifestations of his great intellect, and devoted love of country, which we would gladly copy if our space allowed it. His death was chiefly on the distracted condition of the Union, and his intense anxiety for its complete restoration seemed to overpower all other interests even when in a dying condition, inducing, we are told, the most fervent and eloquent appeals which ever distinguished his brilliant career. It is said that "forgetful of himself, and his intense pains, his reason, errant on all else, still appreciated and was alive to the peril of the land which he loved, with all the fervor of his nature."

Some men are like cats. You may stroke the fur the right way for years, and hear nothing but purring; but accidentally tread on the tail, and all memory of former kindness is obliterated.

Dressing Salad.—It is a Spanish proverb that four persons are necessary to the proper preparation of salad: a spendthrift for oil, a miser for vinegar, a connoisseur for salt, and a madman to stir it all up.

"Attention, Citizens, and 'tend to your roll-call," said an Irish sergeant. "All of ye that are present, say 'Here,' and all of ye that are not present say 'Absent.'"

We frankly admit that we live by the labor of the Planter, and as he prospers, we prosper. Our location is convenient to most of the hotels, wagon yards and landings. In our office will be found the latest newspapers and commercial reports from the different markets and which will always be subject to the perusal of our friends. Soliciting your business we will be pleased to have your call and see us whenever you visit the city. Very Respectfully,

We are prepared to Receive, Store and Sell all kinds of Country Produce, such as Cotton, Tobacco, Flour, Hay, Corn, Oats, Bran, and in fact, any and everything the farmer may have for sale.

We are now in receipt of, and are daily receiving, a large lot of all the articles usually kept in a Grocery Store, consisting in part of Bagging, Rope, Sugar, Coffee, Molasses, Bacon, Lard, Flour, Nails, Powder, Shot, Lead, Percussion Caps, Rice, Candles, Buckets and Tubs, Spices, Sauces, Brooms, Matches, and Wines and Liquors of all grades and qualities, all of which we will sell at the lowest market rates.
